

Personal investor profile

Your investment decisions will be based on lifestyle, personality, risk tolerance, and certain financial considerations, such as when you want to retire. The Personal Investor Profile questionnaire below can be used as a guideline to help you determine your investor profile and risk tolerance. Keep in mind asset allocation and diversification do not assure or guarantee better performance and cannot eliminate the risk of investment losses.

Personal Investor Profile

The asset allocations provided by this Personal Investor Profile are provided for educational purposes only and should not be construed as investment advice. In applying any asset allocation model to your individual situation, you should consider your other assets, income and investments in addition to any balance you may have in a retirement plan. See your financial advisor before making any decision as to your asset allocation.

Profiles

Conservative Profile

This profile may be right for you if you want to avoid a potential loss of account value, or if you are nearing retirement. You should be willing to go without the potential for higher long-term returns in exchange for a more stable and predictable return.

Moderate Conservative Profile

This profile may be right for you if your primary goal is to avoid short-term losses. However, you also want higher long-term returns to offset the effects of inflation. Your account will likely have relative stability, but in order to keep up with inflation, some fluctuations in your account value should be expected.

Moderate Profile

This profile may be right for you if you are interested in balancing your level of risk and return. You want to have returns in excess of inflation and an increase in your account value over the long term, and, you should be willing to accept short-term losses and fluctuations in your account value.

Moderate Aggressive Profile

This profile may be right for you if you have more time until retirement and can tolerate higher-than-average fluctuations in your account value. This type of allocation provides the potential for higher-than-average returns over the long term. You should be willing to accept short-term losses and less stable returns.

Aggressive Profile

This profile may be right for you if you are willing and able to stay the course through short-term gains and losses because you want the potential for higher returns over the long term. You should have a long time until retirement and a high tolerance for risk. You should be willing to accept frequent short-term losses and extreme fluctuations in account value.
